Spotlight on Research

Poster Presentation at ASHA

At the national conference for the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA), Wolf faculty members presented a Poster Session on gains made by Wolf students in Social Thinking \(R\).

Utilizing Social Thinking curriculum and concepts developed by Michelle Garcia Winner, Wolf faculty teach students about interactions with others and how to better understand and respond to thoughts, emotions and intentions.

Speech and Language Therapy Supervisor Anissa Khouri along with Speech and Language Therapists Rachel Best and Leah Garvey, collected data on eleven students over three years that demonstrated marked improvements in Social Thinking.

According to Anissa Khouri, "Exposure to Social Thinking school-wide through Wolf's Immersion Model improves our students' ability to understand and demonstrate the nuances of social communication and interactions. This not only improves a student's ability to focus and attend in the classroom setting but also makes daily life easier to enjoy and negotiate."

Spotlight on the Classroom

Walk like an Egyptian!

Hands-on, experiential learning is an important component of teaching at Wolf. For the sixth grade class, this meant a fashion show as they finished up their unit on Ancient Egypt with a chance to wear authentic clothing brought back from a faculty member's trip to the deserts of this fascinating country.

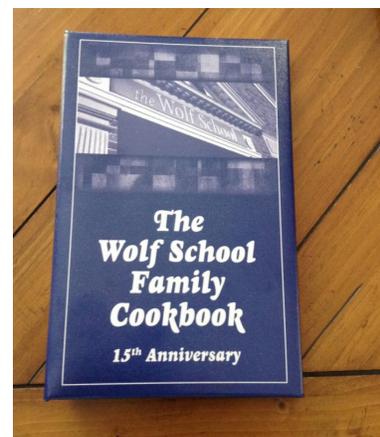

Spotlight on WSPO

The Wolf School's 15th Anniversary Cookbook is Here!

Thanks to our dedicated WSPO (Wolf School Parent Organization) a Wolf School Family Cookbook filled with recipes from parents, staff and even Board members, is now available for purchase.

With over 140 recipes, including gluten free and vegetarian options, this hardcover cookbook, complete with bookstand and an e-version, will soon become a favorite!

100% of proceeds from cookbook sales go directly to student field trips and activities supported by the WSPO. Cookbooks can be purchased for $20 each. Call the Main Office at 401-432-9940 to place your order today!
