Wolf Celebrates Founders Day!

Wolf families and students were excited to join together on February 24, 2012 in recognition of the school's beginnings. Parents visited their child's classroom and stayed for lunch. The eighth graders presented a skit on how the school was started and described the growth and changes of Wolf over the years.

Pointing to the flags hanging in The Pelson Center, the students proudly explained, "Each flag represents a Wolf School graduate-- there are 45. Where are they now? Some are in high school, some are in college, and some are successfully working in the world. And we

Courtney Dubois Honored

For her talents, dedication and leadership, Courtney Dubois (left) was presented with this year's Wolf School Founders Day Award by Head of School, Jessica

Robins Miller (right). A teacher at the school for 5 years, she fosters confidence and achievement in her students, showing them how to get through the tough times with strategies that work.

Courtney's creativity and enthusiasm taps into student strengths and helps them meet their individual needs while at the same time embraces a team effort. For example, Courtney's class created and participated in an Olympic "torch run" as part of their work in setting and achieving goals.

Congratulations Courtney and thanks for all you do to make Wolf an outstanding learning environment!
